

AFT DEFENDS ANTI TRUST MEASURE

rompt to Reply to Attack of herman Bill Made by Congressman Littleton

YS LAW WILL BE ENFORCED

come on Arrival in East.

TTSBURG, Oct. 31.—President defended the Sherman antitrust law in answer to an address by Congressman Martin W. Littleton of New York, who earlier in the evening had attacked provisions of the law at a banquet of the Pittsburg chamber of commerce. It was nearly midnight before the president started back.

This question has been eloquently discussed by my friend Littleton," Mr. Taft, "and I regret that the time has come up here. It is a hardship to have a difference of opinion on an occasion of this kind.
I must say what I think.
The Sherman law has been on the statute books for 20 years and has been construed, and construed and considered and finally by the supreme court. The two decisions last spring, my judgment, give it definite meaning, that any combination in restraint of trade with the purpose of controlling and stifling competition is a violation of the statute.
When I know whether they intend to do competition and control prices, all that is necessary in a court of law is to prove the combination and that is all that is needed for enforcement of any criminal law.

It is not pleasant to be engaged in it may seem to be an assault on business, but business men thought the law could not be enforced. Now the law can and is being enforced and use of this we hear that it is to be enforced.

Only One Court Open. would cut my hand off before I could injure business. But what has my dear friend Littleton, in offering one course is open. Either we have individualism, or we will have combinations in restraint of trade to that point where the people demand that the power of management in such corporations be transferred to the government. And then we will have state socialism.

Now, we can disintegrate unlawful corporations and put them under liquidation. If they operate they must pay.

I know I am speaking against the will of many of you, but I cannot do it. The law is on the statute books and must be enforced, and this is the only way to get it enforced.

didn't want to get into this discussion, but I want you business men to see this problem.
There was frequent applause during the president's remarks. At midnight the president was taken to the Shadyside station of the Pennsylvania railroad where plans had been perfected for his trip to Morgantown, W. Va.
Given Big Welcome.
President Taft's second swing around the world came to an end here today the most enthusiastic and far the best demonstration he has experienced. The 3,200 miles he has traveled, Pittsburgh celebrated the centennial of steam navigation on western rivers, and Mr. Taft was the star attracting to the police there were 1,000 persons at the wharf on the Pittsburgh river when the president was taken aboard the steamboat "Virginia" to review the "fleet" anchored off.

SOCIALISTS ARE STRONG IN RACE CLOSE FIGHT FOR MAYOR OF LOS ANGELES

Harriman Is Neck and Neck With Alex. Republican and Good Government Societies

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 31.—Increased returns from 235 precincts out of 241 give the following vote for mayor in today's primary:
Job Harriman, Socialist, 3,768.
George Alexander, Republican, Good Government, 3,204.

The same precincts showed that the entire Socialist community ticket was running 390 to 500 votes ahead of the Republican-Good Government coalition and unattached candidates.
W. C. Massey, third in the race, was running so far behind Alexander and Harriman that early tonight his name was eliminated from the snap tallies taken at the polling places.

It is agreed by rival campaign managers that the vote between Harriman and Alexander will be close, and that there is a likelihood of either receiving a majority.

The partial count indicates that early forecasts of the total vote were excessive, and that it will fall below 50,000. It is claimed by the Good Government forces that nine-tenths of the Socialist vote was cast before noon, while in the precincts counted as heavily for Alexander, the "stay-at-homes" reduced the total far below early estimates.

S. C. Graham, president of the Good Government league, at 10:30 tonight issued the following statement:

Graham's Statement.
Full returns from 150 precincts, giving Alexander 6,739 and Harriman 5,970, show the complexion of the vote throughout the city, and it appears that while Alexander will lead Harriman, he will not have a majority of the election vote cast, and the election of mayor will be deferred until December 5.

Interest in today's contest centered entirely in the mayoralty fight. The strength developed by Harriman early in the campaign had nerve the opponents of Socialism to every endeavor, and the result was that today's vote was one of the heaviest ever polled in this city. Before noon more than 40,000 of votes out of a total registration of 50,000 had been cast. With an organization rivaling in effectiveness that of the Republican and Good Government coalition, the Socialist had more than 200 automobiles engaged throughout the day in carrying voters to the polls, while red badges and banners were in evidence in every predict.

When it became apparent tonight that neither of the leading candidates for the mayoralty would poll a majority vote, party leaders began laying plans for the campaign that will end in the regular election in December.
In that election the women of Los Angeles, enfranchised by the adoption of a state constitutional amendment October 10, will vote for the first time.
More than 23,000 women have already registered and more than 60,000 are eligible to vote.

CAMBRIDGE PREACHER INDICTED ON 5 COUNTS

BOSTON, Oct. 31.—The Rev. Clarence V. T. Richeson, pastor of the Immanuel Baptist church, Cambridge, was indicted on five counts charging murder in the first degree today for the alleged poisoning of his former sweetheart, Miss Ade W. Linnell, of Hyalis.

By the returning of this true bill, the necessity of holding a hearing in the municipal court is obviated.

The indictment is the so-called blanket type, the five counts being so worded as to permit the introduction of evidence as to any of several methods by which the poison may have been conveyed to the girl.

The indictment indicates that the government is as yet without knowledge of what means were employed to hand the poison to Miss Linnell and is uncertain also as to the exact form in which the poison was taken. The date of Mr. Richeson's trial is tentatively set for January.

THREE JURORS NEEDED TO START

Unusual Burst of Speed Is Shown in McNamara Hearing During Yesterday

HALF-DAY SESSION OF COURT

Judge Bordwell Will Take Up Inspection of Another
Venire to Be Drawn

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 31.—Three more jurors were needed tonight to fill the jury box in the James B. McNamara trial before opposing counsel beginning their peremptory challenges. Five of the nine now accepted so far as challenge for cause is concerned have been chosen in a day and a half. The burst of speed encouraged court and counsel. Those now qualified so far as cause are:

Frank Frakes, farmer.
George W. Johnson, retired foundry superintendent.
Walter N. Frampton, farmer.
A. C. Winter, builder and contractor.
George W. McKee, real estate dealer.
F. D. Green, orange grower.
Robert Bain, carpenter.
Seaborn Manning, farmer.
Son Mendenhall, orange grower.

May Exclude Six.

With 20 peremptory challenges at the disposal of the defense and 10 in the hands of the state, it is considered unlikely that more than three of this list will be on the final jury. Johnson, Frampton, Winter and McKee are among the possibilities for the peremptory challenge by the defense.
Those to be exercised by the state, it is believed, are less clearly determined, but may include Frakes and one or two others. Neither side would say tonight just what men it would exclude, and some surprise are expected when the challenges are exercised.

If all the 30 peremptory challenges allowed by law are used, which seems likely, there will remain a full jury box with 11 left over, and after these are exhausted a final 12 men will have to be selected, impervious to challenge for cause. The completion of a jury is, therefore, considered a matter of weeks.

Half Session of Court.

Only a half session of court was held because of a Los Angeles primary election. Two of the counsel for the defense were directly interested in the election, Job Harriman being the Socialist candidate for the mayoralty nomination, and Joseph Scott, president of the board of education, again completed for membership on the board. Scott attended the morning session of the court, which was marked by the acceptance as to cause of talesmen Frakes and Johnson. Johnson was taken over a challenge by the defense, which was disallowed by the court. A challenge against Talesman Thomas Preston presented by the defense after Preston had said that from personal experience he had formed opinions which would prevent giving a fair trial, was under consideration when court adjourned.

Judge Bordwell announced today that he would take up before court tomorrow morning the preliminary examination of the new venire of 40 men drawn yesterday to see if any of them have excuses which would prevent them from serving on a jury. By this method from a half to two-thirds of the two preceding venires have been disposed of in about the time the examination of one venireman is likely to take.

WILL RECALL HINES IN SILPHENSON CASE

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 31.—As it was about to conclude its public hearings, the United States senate committee, investigating the charges of bribery in the election of Senator Isaac Stephenson, today decided to recall Edward Hines, the lumberman, to be questioned regarding the testimony of State Senator P. O. Hustling.

Mr. Hines, who a week ago, denied he had had anything to do wrongfully with the election of Senator Stephenson, is to appear again tomorrow.
Mr. Hustling's testimony related to a conversation alleged to have taken place in an office in Chicago, after Stephenson was elected in March, 1909.
In the presence of Lieutenant Governor Thomas Morris and himself, Hustling declared Wirt H. Cook, of Duluth had told of a dispute between Hines and Robert J. Shields in which Hines was represented as threatening to "send Shields to the penitentiary," because of the latter's demand for money for "putting over" Stephenson's election and in which Shields threatened to do the same thing for Hines.
Attorney Littlefield, on behalf of Senator Stephenson, said he was authorized to state in advance that Mr.
Hines would deny the whole story. At this point Senator Heyburn, chairman, announced that all testimony bearing on the subject would be heard.
"But," he added, "if any perjury charges are contemplated they must be brought before state authorities and not before the committee."

COMPROMISE AVERTS SHORT LINE STRIKE

Increase of 3 Per Cent Is Offered by Road and Committee Accepts

There will be no strike on the Mallard Terminal and Short Line roads.
General Manager Waters granted a 3 per cent increase in the wage schedule yesterday afternoon at a conference between him and the grievance committee from the unions, and the offer was accepted by the committee without further parley.

The compromise ends a dispute of long standing between the roads and the committee. At first the committee demanded a 10 per cent increase in the schedule, and when it was positively refused by the railroads management a strike was unanimously voted by the employees. The raise in schedule granted and accepted is identical with that given by the Colorado Midland road several weeks ago, after a strike had been voted on that road.

The grievance committee will remain in the city until the new schedules have been arranged and formally signed.

The new schedule will go into effect immediately, and affects about 50 employees, including engineers, conductors, brakemen and firemen.

R. I. Employees Favor Strike; Will Confer

CHICAGO, Oct. 31.—The strike vote, taken recently among employees of the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific railway was in favor of a strike, officials of the road were informed today by a committee representing the workers. A conference was asked looking to a settlement of the difficulty. Just because of the absence from Chicago of some railroad officials, the conference cannot be held until next week.

Wages and the railroad's withdrawal from operation of certain shop rules are given as the basis of the trouble.

Wage increases of approximately 15 per cent and a restoration of the union shop rules will be insisted upon at the conference, declared the employees.

PULITZER FUNERAL TODAY

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—The body of Joseph Pulitzer, proprietor of the New York World and the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, who died on board his yacht,
"Charleston" harbor, last Sunday, arrived here from Charleston late today on a special car accompanied by members of the family. It was taken directly to the late residence of the editor in East Seventy-third street, where it lay in state for a time.

Funeral services will be conducted at St. Thomas Episcopal church, at 2:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, by the Rev. Dr. E. M. Stires, the rector.
The pallbearers will be President Michael Murray Butler of Columbia, former Mayor Seth Low of New York city, Rear Admiral W. H. Emory, Gen.
John B. Henderson of Washington, Lewis C. Clarke, president of the American Exchange National bank of New York city, Col. George Harvey, editor of Harper's Weekly, St. Clair McKee-ge, editor of the Brooklyn Eagle, George L. Rives, a well-known lawyer, Dr. James W. McLean, a New York physician, and Frederick L. Judson of St. Louis.

Youth Tells Police He Is N. Y. Murderer

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 31.—Horatio Bertram Moser, aged 23, who said he was the son of Maurice Moser, an art dealer, 330 East Fifth street, New York, surrendered to the police tonight declaring himself a murderer who was died of being a fugitive. His victim, he said, was Stephen Brooks, fiancee of his sister, Millicent, whom he killed September 10, 1910.

Moser is being held tonight pending the result of inquiries instituted by the police in New York. The prisoner calmly declared he killed Brooks when two, two met near a cafe at Forty-second street and Broadway, New York. The tragedy, according to Moser, occurred just after he had been married to his childhood sweetheart, with whom, he said, he had communicated occasionally during his wanderings. His bride informed him, in a code letter, he added, that Brooks died two days after he was shot on September 12, 1910, a month before the date set for his wedding to Moser's sister, Millicent, aged 21. Moser declared he shot Brooks when he made certain discoveries in connection with the white slave traffic.
After the shooting, Moser said, he visited his father, and then left for the Pacific coast. He spent a few days in San Francisco, but worked for the greater part of the time on a ranch.
He arrived here today, he added, and feeling blue, disheartened and tired of avoiding policemen, decided to surrender.

SON'S FORTUNE MAY GO TO PITMAN

Rich Indian Boy Critically Ill on Father's Ranch in Delta County

DEATH PREDICTED BY AGENTS

Indian Law Makes Father Son's Sole Heir—Government May Intervene

Death may make all that the federal officers accomplished in Colorado Springs two weeks ago in securing the custody of Robert Pitman, Jr., for his full-blooded Creek mother, and the conservation of his $250,000 estate which he claimed was being jeopardized by his father, Robert Pitman, Sr., 806 East Boulder street. For young Robert is critically ill of pneumonia at his father's ranch near Paonia and attending physicians fear that the little Indian boy has a very short time to live.

Should young Robert succumb to his illness his father, under the laws of the Five Civilized Tribes, would be sole heir to the rich oil lands and all the property belonging to his son. Such a condition would create what is known as an Indian dead claim.

One of the charges voiced by the federal officers, who in Colorado Springs was that Robert Pitman, Sr., and some of his associates were attempting to bring about just such a situation so the property of the rich son would revert immediately to his father, Creek Attorney M. L. Mott, said in that connection:

Situation Predicted by Mott.
"Young Robert is a delicate child, I would be greatly surprised if he will live very long. We fear to leave him in the custody of his father because any sudden exposure might result in pneumonia, and it would be so easy for Robert to fall into a snow drift, become ill and die a natural death. That is our greatest fear and that is what the department of interior fears."

When Federal Agent Fred Cook went to the Delta county ranch to bring young Robert to his mother, two weeks ago, it was found that the lad was too ill to travel. He was left with W. B. Hollahan, uncle of Pitman's second wife, and Hollahan was instructed to take Robert to Muskogee as quickly as his health would permit. Now, physicians say that to attempt to carry the boy across the continental divide would result in nothing short of death for him. They say that young Robert is predisposed to tuberculosis and that he probably could never leave Colorado. They advise that Colorado be his permanent home.

Just what action will be taken by the federal and Indian agents, in the light of these new developments, is not known. It was learned last night, however, that the government will go to every end possible in order to detect the revision of the child's property to his father, in case of the boy's death.

Think Other Dead Claim Fraud.

Advice has been received from Oklahoma to the effect that government officials are investigating the report that Robert Pitman is not the father of the 12-year-old girl who died nine years ago and whose estate was turned over to Robert Pitman in satisfaction of a dead claim filed on by him. It is said that the girl was the daughter of Lucinda Pitman, a former husband, now dead. The probation of his death claim in that instancnetted Pitman something over $65,000.
Bearing on this report is the fact that Federal Agent Cook and Attorney Mott, that Pitman, in his petition for divorce from Lucinda Pitman, avers that three children were born to him and Lucinda Pitman, all of whom are now living. Mrs. Lucinda Pitman's first husband was an own brother of Robert Pitman.

In granting the petition of Lucinda Pitman, filed recently before Judge Sawyer, the district court gave the custody of Robert Pitman, Jr., and Buster Pitman to their mother, the father retaining custody of Louise Pitman. This action was brought about through the efforts of Federal Agent Cook, Attorney Mott and Attorney Ben Thompson, who were investigating conditions surrounding the case here.

BELIEVED TURKS WILL TAKE TRIPOLI AGAIN

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—The recapture of Tripoli by the Turks seems imminent to officials of the Turkish embassy here, in the light of official advice from Constantinople tonight.
The dispatch says an attack was made on Fort Seye-Mari-Ep-Henni, and that the Italians had evacuated the place, leaving behind a great quantity of ammunition and other supplies.
The losses of the Italians are reported to be enormous, while the Turks are said to have lost 40 killed and about 100 wounded.
The Turkish forces reinforced by volunteers, first advanced upon Tripoli on the night of October 25, breaking the lines of the Italians at many different points. This attack lasted until 1 o'clock the next morning, when the Italians retreated to a remote corner of the town.

RAILROAD MEN ENJOY SCENERY MATERIAL GATHERED TO ADVERTISE DISTRICT

Advertisers Will See Nearby Points of Interest Today.
Crystal Park Tomorrow

Riding in a gondola or open car in front of the engine of the Short Line road, the railroad advertising men who are in this city gathering data for their summer's campaign were given an opportunity yesterday morning to observe to its best advantage the wonderful magnificence of the scenic grandeur which that particular region offers to entire summer vacationers to leave their homes for the enjoyment of splendid mountain scenery. That is just the sort of munition for which these advertising men are searching.
It is something to write about that is real and appealing to those who desire a few weeks of rest away from home and the advertising men appreciate the incomparable natural beauty of the valleys, the simple, awesome grandeur and blueness of the mountains, and the picturesque mining town at the end of the morning's journey, all made such a decided impression upon the minds of the visitors that their advertising copy for next season must necessarily reflect to the glory and good of Colorado Springs and the Pikes Peak region. That is one reason why the delegation which visited the Convention of the American Passenger and Ticket Agents association, which met in St. Paul over a month ago, was so anxious and diligent in securing the presence of the visitors who are now being entertained by the Chamber of Commerce.

Dinner 900 Feet in the Ground.
One of the novel features of the trip to Cripple Creek yesterday was the dinner which was served to the visitors 900 feet below the ground in the largest slope of the Portland mine.
This was, perhaps, the first time that such a gathering had ever eaten a meal so far underground, and the event was thoroughly enjoyed by all of them. After the lunch was served the entire party was shown through the workings of the mine, which is one of the largest gold mines in the United States.

Before reaching Cripple Creek the party left the train at Victorville junction, where they took the High line electric drive over the mining district, and all of the mines of note in the district were pointed out to them, as well as many broken hopes in the form of abandoned prospect holes.
The trip through the Portland mine took up the time until the departure of the train for its return to this city.
During the return trip the party got another view of the beautiful scenery in the gloaming, and all expressed themselves as being more than delighted with the events of the day and the sights which they had enjoyed.
They arrived in Colorado Springs at 6:45 o'clock last night.

The party consisted of about 25 advertising men, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Matthews, Mr. and Mrs. David Elliot,
Mr. and Mrs. Charles T. Wilder, Mr.
E. A. Sunderland, Mr. and Mrs. Horace
F. Lunt, W. A. Scully, all of Colorado Springs, and L. E. L. Giles, Dr. M. N.
Brenshaw and W. C. Porter, of Manitou.

Take Other Sightseeing Trips.
Today the advertising men will be the guests of the city in automobile drives over the points of interest in the immediate district. The Garden of the Gods, Palmer park and the High drive will be among the places visited.
Tomorrow, W. C. Hotter will accompany the visitors with a trip over the Crystal park drive, giving them an opportunity to obtain another splendid idea of the most interesting mountain scenery in the world.

Leaders Are Confident.
Yuan Shi Kai started for the front yesterday and is now at Sin Yuen Chau. The policy which he will adopt is eagerly awaited. Negotiations looking to a settlement have been underway between Yuan Shi Kai and the revolutionary leaders but the latter are confident of their strength and have expressed themselves as having little faith in the promises of the troops.

The Americans will hold a meeting at the legation tomorrow to decide upon definite measures for their own protection. Foreign troops are guarding the mission houses in Peking. It is believed serious trouble in the capital will be averted, but the Americans, like other foreigners, are preparing for emergencies. Detachments of British, French and other guards have been distributed to the missions, which lie outside the legation quarter.

Many Americans are among the foreigners seeking refuge here from the interior. There is only one American family at Tai Yuan Fu, which is in the hands of the revolutionists, but there are many throughout the province of Shan Si.

Other Edicts Remembered.
The native press has received the reform edicts favorably. The Chinese remember how frequently the promises contained in former edicts have been forgotten, may not be satisfied, however. The reformers in Peking are divided into two parties—the Extremists mainly southerners who insist upon the expulsion of the Manchus, and the Moderates, who are numerous throughout the empire. The latter are indifferent as to whether the dynasty is Manchu or Chinese, but they want great administrative changes and be-

Slight Increase Is Shown in C. C. District for Last Month

Special to the Gazette.
CRIPPLE CREEK, Oct. 31.—The production from the mines of the Cripple Creek district for October has shown a slight increase, the figures of the shipping agents of the mills and local managers showing 77,717 tons treated with a gross billion value of $1,302,704.52, as against 75,825 tons with the billion value of $1,249,759, in September. The average value per ton of all ores treated was $16.16 per ton.
Of more importance than tonnage from the stockholders' point of view, is the announcement that dividends paid out during the same period amounted to the enormous sum of $1,- 225,500, a record for the district and state.

A number of important discoveries were reported and new developments at great depth were commenced in many mines. The deep drainage tunnel is again being actively carried forward, and the flow has shown a material increase. Outside capital is finding its way back to the district, as evidenced by the sale of the controlling interest in the Henry Adair, Mary Nevin, Little Hesse, and Mabel of Oreleans companies, with extensive holdings on Pecos hill.
Below will be found in tabulated form, the tonnage treated at the various plants, together with a tabulation of dividends paid.

TO BREAK UP COLD

Some Advice That Will Save Time and Money

Strong drink and quinine may relieve a cold, but it usually does more harm than good. To break up a cold, hold in either head or chest, thousands are using this sensible treatment.
First of all, look after your bowels. If they are not regular, use any reliable cathartic. Then pour a quart of tepid water, cover head and neck with a towel and breathe for 5 or 10 minutes the pleasant, soothing, healing vapor. Do this just before going to bed. Your head will feel free and clear and you'll awake with a refreshing sleep, minus a cold in the morning.
For colds, coughs, croup, asthma and croupy babies, a guaranteed, A. H. H. cold and this can be obtained at drug stores everywhere.

U. S. STEEL DECLARES BOTH ITS PREFERRED AND COMMON DIVIDEND

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—In spite of rumors apparently unfounded that steps were being taken to enjoin the common dividend of the United States Steel corporation and that it might be reduced, the usual distribution of 1 1/2 per cent on that security was declared at the regular quarterly meeting of the directors today.
The usual quarterly dividend of 1 1/2 per cent on preferred stock also was declared. There was complete accord among the directors present as to the dividend which the quarterly financial statement showed had been earned, although no extra appropriations were made for expenditure.
The statement for the third quarter of the year ending September 30 showed earnings of $29,571,225, with net earnings of $29,716,167. These compare with $28,108,820 and $21,838,840, respectively, for the quarter immediately preceding. For the corresponding quarter of 1910, earnings and net earnings were $37,265,187 and $31,403,725, respectively.
In practically all particulars the statement was better than had been expected. The surplus net income for the third quarter is $2,745,494, as against $1,859,177 for the preceding quarter. But it is much below that of the same quarter last year, when this item totaled $11,078,063.
No Appropriations.
On the other hand, no appropriations from surplus were made the last quarter, while in the third quarter last year $7,500,000 was set aside for expenditures, which included authorized payments for additional property, new plants and construction. It is possible that such appropriations may be made at the end of the fourth quarter, as was done last year, when $5,000,000 additional was set aside for various payments, making a total for that year of $25,000,000. Thus far this year no appropriations of this character have been made.
The course of the steel shares on the stock exchange earlier in the day reflected a degree of uncertainty as to the outcome of the meeting, but the common stock was well supported throughout, and in the final hour advanced to 5 1/2 and closed at 5 1/4, a net gain of 1 1/4 points. The stock is now practically within 5 points of its price last Thursday, when announcement of the government's suit was made.

MITCHELL SAYS DEFEAT IS VICTORY FOR HARMON

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 31.—My defeat was a victory for Governor Harmon, declared E. Y. Mitchell of Springfield, Mo., over whom Edward F. Galt, of St. Louis was today selected as the Missouri member of the Democratic national committee, to succeed the late Col. Moses Wetmore. Mr. Galt received 19 of the 32 votes of the Democratic state committee, which made the selection.
"Members of the state committee," continued Mr. Mitchell, "promised to vote for me. If I would pledge myself to Harmon, I refused."
"The committee decided not to take on the question of a primary to settle the presidential candidate controversy. A member voiced the sentiment of the committee when he said:
"A primary would rip the party to pieces."
Edward F. Galt, of St. Louis, the new Missouri member of the Democratic national committee, is a railway and mining man, and is rated many times a millionaire. In his election as national committeeman he had the support of the friends of Speaker Clark as well as those of Governor Harmon of Ohio and he himself is a close personal friend of Governor Woodrow Wilson of New Jersey. Politicians were unable to state whether Governor Wilson, Governor Harmon or Mr. Clark was preferred most by Mr. Galt's election. With the next part they agreed, however, that it was unfortunate for the candidacy of former Governor Folk.

PIMPLES ON FACE CAUSED GREAT DISFIGUREMENT

For Three Long Years, Suffered Great Deal, Cuticura Soap and Ointment Brought Marvelous Results. In Few Weeks Cured Completely.

"I was troubled with acne for three long years. My face was the only part affected, but it caused great disfigurement, also. I tried everything, but nothing helped. I was a great deal of a pimple, which later contained white matter. I suffered a great deal caused by the pimples. I was in a state of perpetuity when walking the streets or anywhere before the public.
I read in the paper of Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I bought some Cuticura Soap and Ointment and by following the directions I was relieved in a few days. I am now completely cured. I can truly say that the Cuticura Remedies are not only a cure, but more than they claim to be." (Eugene G. Bauman, 1015 W. 20th St., Chicago, Ill., May 28, 1911.)
For more than a generation Cuticura Remedies have afforded the most economical and effective relief for the skin and scalp. A cake of Cuticura Soap (25c) and a box of Cuticura Ointment (25c) are often sufficient. Write for a free booklet, "How to Cure the Skin." It will be sent you on application to F. J. Chas. & Co., Inc., 121 N. 3rd St., St. Paul, Minn.

HOMESTEADERS TO GET PATENTS IN REDLANDS

GRAND JUNCTION, Colo., Oct. 31.—Patents are being issued to homesteaders in the Redlands district, just across the river, after being held up many years by litigation. Their claims have been contested on the ground that they have been parties to a conspiracy, where the Redlands Power and Irrigation company was to secure their lands after the patents had been issued, a charge which the interior department found baseless after full investigation.

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 31.—Slow progress was made in obtaining a jury for the murder trial of Dr. Clarke Hyde today. Of 30 gentlemen examined only two qualified. This brought the total number of summoned up to 135. A new panel of 40 men has been called to report for examination tomorrow.

Colorado Springs' Bonded Indebtedness $1,897,000

Colorado Springs' bonded indebtedness January 1, 1912, will be $1,897,000, according to a statement compiled by City Treasurer Bartholomew for use by Finance Commissioner Whitaker in making his annual report to the mayor. Indebtedness to next year's budget. Of the total, $1,638,000 will be owing on water bonds, $75,000 on sewer bonds, $150,000 on city hall bonds and $30,000 on bridge and viaduct bonds.

It is expected that $20,000 worth of city hall bonds and about $68,000 worth of water bonds will be taken up next year.

Following is Treasurer Bartholomew's statement of the bonded indebtedness:

REFUSES TO OBEY PRINCE'S SUMMONS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—Yuan Shi Kai, the dominating force in China, will return to Peking in answer to the imperial summons, only when the prince regent voluntarily relinquishes the power he now enjoys of condemning any Chinese subject to instant execution without trial.

This is the prevalent belief among Washington officials, some of whom express confidence that the throne will yield to the demands of the national assembly and relinquish this power. Otherwise it might be unsafe for Yuan Shi Kai or any other Chinese notable to place himself within the power of the throne.

According to state department advisers, demands on the throne made in the ultimatum of the national assembly have not been granted. Among them are the following:

An immediate parliament; that constitutional amendments originate in parliament; that the army, though subject to the control of the emperor, be not used in domestic troubles, except under regulations of parliament; that parliament elect the premier; be to appoint ministers of state; that the parliament approve the budget and all treaties affecting the general interest of the country; that the qualifications of electors for members of parliament be defined and that the army be constituted in regard to those matters.

Another source of difficulty, in the execution of the reform program, has been found in the ominous attitude of the great Manchurian princes. They are indignant at their deprivation of all control of the government and are now threatening the peace of Peking.

lieve that drastic measures are necessary to give the reforms a fair start.

The vital question is whether the two wings will be able to unite. The inherent tendency of the Chinese is toward compromise but unexpected circumstances frequently carry the day in China. At Canton the viceroy and leading gentry are classed as Moderates, while the masses are Extremists.

The same condition prevails in the province of Hunan. Hu Feh, Hohan, Sam Si, Kiang Si and Szechuan. Naturally Manchuria and Chi Li remain loyalist. Shantung, Kiang Su, Anhwei, Chekiang, Fukien, Kweichow and Yunnan are apparently half-hearted. Elsewhere incipient rebellion is spreading.

Whole Court May Depart.

An important question for the north is whether General Chang, leader of the Lan-Chan soldiers, is acting independently or in collusion with other rebels. If the edicts satisfy the northern soldiers, the control of north China will not be seriously impeded, but concerted action on the part of General Chang and the southern forces would probably result in the flight of the court to Jehol.

It is reported that the garrisons at Tsi-Nan-Fu, Chan Chung, Pao-Ting-Fu and Teh Chow have declared in favor of the revolutionists and that Kai-Feng is expected to revolt shortly. A revolt at Pao-Ting-Fu would be of great importance and it would result in cutting Ting Tehang's communications completely.

General Yin Tehang has sent back home all the Hunan troops suspected of disloyalty. His army at Sh Yang Chau is deplorably provisioned, one division being without food for two days. It is stated in some quarters that Yuan Shi Kai has been appointed premier. It is added that the government intends to accede to every demand made by the Lan-Chan soldiers and other disaffected troops and it is expected the ministry will resign tomorrow.

CHINESE LEADERS WERE NOT TRAINED IN U. S.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 31.—A report from Washington that many of the officers in the Chinese revolutionary army received their military training in America is pronounced untrue by the leaders of the Chinese National association here. They say the revolutionary activities outside of China have consisted in spreading the revolutionary propaganda and in organizing centers for the collection of funds to finance the revolution. In proof of the inexactness of the report they point to the statement that care was taken to exclude Manchus or Tartars from the companies secretly drilling in the United States. This, they say, shows that the report is not of trustworthy origin as all the Chinese in the Americas and the south Pacific islands are from the Cantonese province and there are no Manchurians in this country.

PACIFIC FLEET OFF FOR TODAY'S REVIEW

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Oct. 31.—After a day in which complete assembly was spectacularly effected, the Pacific fleet, under command of Rear Admiral Chas. H. Thomas, is steaming northward tonight to San Pedro, where the inspection and review will be held tomorrow.

Going out of the harbor shortly after noon the vessels took the same formation off Coronado that they will assume tomorrow off San Pedro, the only difference being that today there was no firing of salutes. All of the Pacific armada, with the exception of the submarines Grampus and Pike, formed off Coronado. The submarines left this port ahead of the others, bound on their longest voyage since they arrived here some time ago from the Mare Island navy yard.

Throughout the day the battleship Oregon, which made the famous voyage around the globe in time to participate in the destruction of the Spanish squadron, was the center of interest. The old fighting craft made a squat, bulldog figure in the water, as compared to more modern warships. Tonight the fleet is going northward in two parallel lines, playing its searchlights upon the villages and ranches which lie between this port and San Pedro.

After catching glimpses of what he apparently regarded as animated gowns, he realized that all the waiting and deck hands of the ship had sacrificed their queues from old Wong down to Ling, the cabin boy. In accordance with the revolutionary mandate ordering a wholesale deforestation of all loyal headpieces, Ling, the cabin boy, an ardent revolutionist, had been the emissary of the revolutionists, having conveyed the order to the members of the crew after quietly obtaining permission from the manager of the Pacific mail line. Spacious Offices in Small Areas

Like the well-furnished home, the modern office should so utilize its available space that it never creates the impression of being overcrowded.

Congestion always suggests disorder.

Interruptions to important business deals, aggravating delays and clerical mistakes are frequently caused by poorly planned offices, using unstandardized and different makes of filing cabinets that neither match up or harmonize on the outside, nor afford a uniform efficient service on the inside.

As will be noted in both these illustrations, these offices are not larger than those in the average business block; yet they create the impression of ample room for transacting business without interference.

You can do as well with your office if you will use

Unique Window Display

Be Sure and See It.

The D. Y. Butcher Drug Co., leading druggists of this city, have a unique display in their window this week.

The display is featuring Orlene, the standard liquor habit remedy, which this store has sold for a number of years with much success.

Four beautiful panels, handsomely illustrated, show scenes of every-day life.

One scene shows the workman being discharged by his employer with the statement, "Drinking men not wanted." Employers nowadays do not keep men on their pay rolls whose brains are not steady and whose heads are not clear. Drinking men are not reliable.

Another scene shows the druggist telling the customer that drunkenness is a disease and that Orlene will cure it. Orlene has the hearty endorsement of druggists everywhere, as they know it is doing much good in every vicinity.

The next two scenes show the man who has previously been discharged for drunkenness now reclaimed by the use of Orlene given to him secretly by his wife, who, standing by his side, says: "I'm the happiest woman in the world. Orlene cured my husband." In the scene the man is shown at his work drawing full pay and in the picture of health.

This display is a remarkable exhibit and the D. Y. Butcher Drug Co. state that much interest is being taken in it and that they will be glad to talk to anyone who is interested in restoring to lives of sobriety those who drink to excess. Orlene is a home treatment, it is sold with a guarantee. D. Y. Butcher Drug Co. have sold a large quantity and know of excellent results from its use in this city.

Orlene costs only $1.00 a box and a complete cure costs less than the average drinking man will spend for liquor for himself and friends in a day. It can be given secretly if desired.

Be sure and see the display and get a free booklet.

ENOYABLE HALLOWEEN PARTY AT PRINTERS HOME

A most enjoyable and unique Halloween party was given by Miss Henrietta and Master Proctor Deacon, daughter and son of Superintendent and Mrs. Deacon, in the superintendent's cottage at the Union Printers home last night. Games appropriate for the occasion were indulged in and the 25 guests vied with each other biting apples hung from strings and plugging the pumpkin in just the right place. Carvel Nichols won the prize. After several hours of fun the party was led into the dining room, where novel place cards and Halloween favors indicated the seats for the guests. The refreshments consisted of those good things which one always associates with a Halloween dinner. The Deacon home was decorated in a most artistic manner.

FOR FLETCHER'S

Children Cry

President Roosevelt and Mr. Taft are having at one time or other been willing to have the Sherman law amended. He declared that there is before the nation in the solving of the "trust question" the most difficult and far-reaching problem affecting its internal peace and progress.

"It seems clear to me," said Mr. Littleton, "that the Sherman law can not possibly be made effective in the extermination of the real evil without carrying with it too large a sacrifice of the whole industrial fabric, and that it should be repealed and a new policy or scheme of legislation inaugurated."

Mr. Littleton suggested that every corporation, before it entered into interstate business, be required to submit its incorporation, its status, its true condition, to a board created for that purpose, and to obtain a license to do interstate business. The charter, he said, should be formal, definite, and should recite the terms of the grant. It should be made subject to forfeiture for violation of its provisions. With such machinery to start with, Mr. Littleton said:

"Specific laws for the guidance and control of interstate concerns could be passed by congress."

Feather Beds Laundered

The Pearl Laundry has special machinery for laundering feather beds without taking the feathers from the tick. After the feathers are thoroughly cleaned with Ivory Soap and filtered water they are placed in a Troy Tumbler Dryer and when finished are dry, light and fluffy. Each bed is laundered separately.

Many satisfied customers are congratulating us on the thoroughness of this new method.

ever bank every whistle within miles was tied down. The noise died down long enough for Mrs. Alice Roosevelt to throw down to christen a replica of the New Orleans, the first steamboat on western waters, which was navigated down the Monongahela and the Ohio 66 years ago by her great-grandfather, Nicholas J. Roosevelt. There was quiet, or a moment again, while the president spoke, briefly, praising former president Roosevelt for his statement in behalf of the Panama canal, but when "The Virginia" turned out into the stream it started again.

For more than an hour and a half the Virginia, with the president in the pilot house, steamed down the Monongahela, up the Allegheny, down the Ohio, and then back to the wharf. The noise was so deafening at times that the president was compelled to retire to the pilot house "to hear himself think." He reviewed more than 60 steamboats of assorted sizes and speeds, hundreds of motor boats, rowboats and canoes, scores of barges and government dragoons. It was such a feat, the president said, as he had ever seen before.

Listen to Littleton.

Tonight Mr. Taft brought his visit to Pittsburgh to a close with a speech at the banquet of the local chamber of commerce, where he listened to a plea for the repeal of the Sherman anti-trust act by Congressman Martin W. Littleton of New York, member of the special congressional committee that is investigating the United States Steel corporation.

WHO PROFITS?

WE learn from a reading of the reports of the Government's victories over the trusts, and from President Taft's speeches, that the people have recently won a notable victory in the fight for industrial freedom. A few months ago the Supreme Court landed its long-hoped-for knockout blow on the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey. After the prescribed period allowed for recuperation the trust has formally "dissolved," and officially it is no longer in existence.

The Tobacco trust has gone the same route; the Harvester trust is scrambling to get under cover; the Steel trust is fighting in the last ditch; and all of the other trusts are wondering how long it will be before they, too, are forced to "take the count." Incidentally, there are a good many plain, everyday people whose interest in the trust question is purely casual, who are wondering, like little Peterkin, "what good came of it all."

Does anybody really suppose that the formal dissolution of the Standard Oil Company will promote the welfare of the American people in the slightest degree? Or that the bust-up of the Harvester trust or of the Tobacco trust, will work any benefit to the farmers who use agricultural implements, or to the users of tobacco in its various forms? We doubt it. Perhaps, if somebody had been bright enough and clever enough to prevent the formation of these aggregations of capital many years ago the "ultimate consumer" would have profited vastly. But nobody so much as thought of it then, and now it is as plain as day that nothing is to be gained by a perfunctory "dissolution." The Attorney-General and the Supreme Court can "dissolve" the trusts to suit their own tastes, but the chances are that in the long run more harm than good will result.

For instance, the International Harvester Company is to be resolved UNSOLVED. If the present plans go through into four individual concerns. Presumably each will be independent, but in fact the same set of stockholders will own all four and the same set of men elected by those stockholders will manage them. No law nor conceivable court decision can make it otherwise.

Obviously, the only result of this change will be an increase in the cost of production. Where there has been one manager or other responsible official, henceforth there will be four. Where there has been one office there will be four; each with its complete set of employees of high and low degree. And it follows that the Harvester trust "dissolved" though it may be, will not pocket this added expense. It will do as any other business concern would do—pass it on to the next fellow—and the next fellow is the ultimate consumer. In other words, the farmer who buys harvesting machinery from the firm. He will pay more for his goods, but with no reasonable chance of profiting by the fictitious competition which is assumed to be created by the dissolution of the trust.

It is plain that we have got a long way to travel before a real solution of the trust problem is in sight. Doubtless President Taft is entitled to full credit for doing his best. But neither he nor any other President will ever be able to accomplish results under the Sherman law. As the case stands the problem is bigger than any means yet devised for coping with it. Perhaps the intelligence and patriotism of the country will yet find a way out, but until now they have not done so. The trusts are with us today no less than before the Supreme Court rendered its decisions instructing them to reorganize and be good.

SHORT BALLOT PROGRESS

MOST people who are interested in political reform have heard of the Short Ballot Organization, formed to promote cleaner elections by shortening and thus simplifying the ballot. The theory of the Short Ballot reform is that when all, or most, officers are elective the multiplicity of names on the ballot confuses the voter and prevents his careful consideration of the merits of individual candidates. Therefore it is proposed to make only a few officers elective and the others appointive, thus making possible the presentation to the voter of a short ballot containing, in most cases, not more than a half dozen names. This enables him to center his attention on each candidate, and so to vote more intelligently.

We have the Short Ballot in Colorado Springs. At each municipal election the people vote for members of the Council only, two in one election and three in the next. Thus not more than three officials are to be chosen at any one election and it is relatively a simple matter for the voter to inform himself thoroughly as to the status of each candidate. The rapid extension of the commission form of government has introduced this reform in scores of cities and towns all over the country, and its merits are so obvious that before many years it doubtless will be quite generally adopted.

In the California election last month the people voted favorably on amendments to the constitution transferring several elective officials to the appointive list. The desirability of this change is apparent when it is known that no less than forty-five offices are represented on the ordinary California ballot. There is no particular reason why the people should vote for candidates for minor state offices which might better be filled by appointment. It is vastly safer to leave such appointments to the Governor, after having first shortened the ballot sufficiently to enable the voter to center his attention on the candidates for that most important office. It is safe to predict that before many years this reform will have been generally adopted throughout the country.

From the Chicago Tribune.
Great wealth is a burden, says John D., with a pious groan. Lord, how this world is given to bunk!

USELESS WORRY

From the Syracuse Herald.
After all, there aren't many people worrying over the campaign publicity bill, forbidding candidates for the federal senatorship to spend more than $10,000. In the case of not a few American citizens that inhibition is quite unnecessary.

BRAVE, BUT NEVER RECKLESS

From the Pittsburg Dispatch.
Orville Wright had a narrow escape when his new biplane turned a somersault, throwing him head downward. This is not the first time he has faced death. When his machine fell at Fort Myer, his companion, Lieutenant Selfridge, was killed and Wright himself so seriously injured that it was eight months before he could fly again. He had some bad falls at this same Kill Devil hill when he was testing his first biplane in the early stages of the invention.

But these accidents are not to be classed with the darest of stunts, that have caused so many aviators to lose their lives. The Wrights are scientists who are making a serious study, risking their lives to render safer for others the navigation of the air. They are inventors, not county fair acrobats. They do not hesitate to brave dangers when necessary, but never needlessly risk their lives.

TAKE THE PADLOCK OFF

From the Kansas City Star.
Similarly, the schoolhouse and the town hall are the property of the community. At every corner they should be available to the largest possible number of people for the greatest number of hours. If those facilities are available to the men from the university, the men from all walks of life in every part of the state and nation who have a message to give, may freely bring their offering to the community—Charles R. Van Hise, president of the University of Wisconsin.

The little old town hall and the country schoolhouse at the crossroads are assets that could be made to pay great dividends to every rural community. They have been neglected in the country as the schoolhouses have been neglected in the cities.

The town hall and the schoolhouse should form the community center for a new life on the farm and in the small towns. Better use should be made of them than to keep them locked during the greater part of the year. They are resources awaiting development, and President Van Hise has pointed out the way for that development.

ALCOHOL AND CIVILIZATION

From Harper's.
Totally abstinent races and peoples do not seem to get ahead. For instance, the strip of northern Africa extending from Egypt to the Atlantic ocean and from the Sahara to the Mediterranean was in the days of Carthage the garden spot of the world. Those days, when its inhabitants drank—some too much, others not as much as they would like, and others not at all—the country was lively and prosperous. Now, for a thousand years its people have proven themselves incapable of self-government.

Persia in the days of her later greatness contrived the Koran very liberally, and old Omar himself is indicative of their habits. They were doubtless very bad in regard to alcohol.

Then came a revival, and with it a stricter construction of the holy book; the sinfulness as well as the evil of wine-bibbing was impressed upon the people, abstinence was enforced, and concurrently with this came the decay of Persian art. The wonderful pottery, the embroideries, the tapestries, the rugs, with their sense of joyous life, everything giving the impression that the artist who created it must have sung as he worked, are from the golden days before the people of Persia went to sleep. There is no evidence that the artists who made these things of such surpassing beauty were drinking men. They surely could not have done such work had they drunk too much. We only know as a fact that concurrent with this marvelous development of Persian art the Zoroastrianism, and that Persian art withered and died concurrently with the introduction with what amounted to prohibition.

Sunflower Philosophy
When I'm inclined to weep and wall because my luck seems kind of stale, I always think of William Wain, who lives down by the railway tracks. He lost both legs some years ago, by being frozen in the snow, but no one ever heard him whine or curse his fortune or repine. With cheery LUCK smiles he went his way, upon his crutches, day by day. And later, when he lost both arms, his brave heart scorned all coward alarms; he bore him from the sawmill door, all stained and splattered with his gore, and still he cried: "A thing-a-bunk! I cannot dance, but I can sing!" He kept on singing in his shack, and then one day he broke his back. We put him in a plaster cast, and thought he'd surely wilt at last, but still he cried, in tones of joy: "I am your little sunshine boy!" And later on this human wreck fell from his house and broke his neck; and then a sun blew off his head, and still he wore a smile and said: "Such trifles do not worry me, and I am always full of glee!" So when you were my bosom rack, I could ways think of William Wain, to whom no ill could sorrow bring, and then I dance and whoop and sing.

Did it ever occur to you that there is such a thing as selfishness of obligation?
I think there is.
Yes, I would have given anything to stay a week longer, but they wouldn't let me pay a cent for my board, and I didn't feel right to, without I know they want to be kind, but it really cut my vacation in half.

The speaker was a hard-working little woman. She was persuaded to take a rare and much-needed breathing spell this summer. One week of this vacation she spent with some friends who although not much better off in worldly goods than she, manage to have a summer cottage.

The other week she spent at home because these friends would not let her contribute a little towards the expense of the cottage.

So what was undoubtedly meant kindly on the part of her friends, ended by working a great deprivation to her.

How often people do things like that from a mistaken sense of kindness.

And how often it makes other people uncomfortable or works deprivation to them as in this case.

I know a girl who is very skillful at doing little dinner and dance cards. Her friends often want to get her to do something of the sort for them, but although she always seems glad to do the work she will never take any payment, and so they do not feel like asking her to help them out. The result is that they pay a professional a much larger sum.

"Last summer," I heard a woman say just the other day, "I got a little hitchhiker of mine to take care of my cat while I was away. Of course, I paid for his food, and when I came back I wanted to pay the little girl for the care, but her parents wouldn't let her take a cent. I felt terrible and of course this summer I couldn't ask her again. It would have been a great convenience to me and I know the little girl would be glad to do it for her love cats, but what can you do? I think people are so foolish that way."

There are many times when gracious acceptance of money for services rendered, even when the transaction is between friends, is the highest courtesy.

And I think those people who will not accept such payment are selfish of obligation.

They want to keep the other party eternally under obligation. And since, as everyone knows, being under too heavy obligation is uncomfortable, that is really a selfish state of mind.

Of course there are times when people offer to pay for things merely out of politeness or a sense of duty.

But I think such offers are easily discernible. For more often people want to pay for services rendered, in order that they may not feel under uncomfortable obligation, and in order that they may feel free to ask for those same services again some time.

Surely in such cases the kindest, most courteous, most unselfish way is to let them pay.

Little Bobbie's Pa
By WILLIAM F. KIRK
When Pa came home last night Ma was crying. What was Pa moanin' for? Yes, said Ma, I am crying to think that I have got to put down the society list in Chicago—until there is only one hundred people left. I suddenly came upon Ma, said, even that my cousin who used to live in Colfax has been banished from what used to be the 400 of Chicago. She is a dear madam, said Ma, a woman of the sweetest. A most refined disposition that was ever shown by the wife of a man who made his name in the city. What are you laffin' at? she said to Pa.

Was I laffin'? said Pa. I will love it to Bobbie. Bobbie was laffin'. No, Pa, I said, you was not laffin'. Right, said Pa. Now, he said to Ma, tell me moan about this wonderful one hundred that is left out of the Chicago Four Hundred. Sumone has banished, said Pa. Let us get into the very thick of this affair.

My cousin is harkback, said Ma. She note me the other day, I have just got the letter. The letter was not on fine paper, it was wet in spots with unavailing tears, said Ma. You know, Ma, said Pa, that my cousin was one of the most proud girls that ever came from Colfax to break into Chicago society; and she feels that a great wrong has been done to her and her social standing.

Ah, well, said Pa, perhaps it is for the best. If the folks in Chicago want to reduce their visiting list, that is their business. I don't know who is back of this 146 cut in the Who's Who, Pa, said, it seems funny to me that it didn't take in the kings of the stockyards. I could give a few other names, too, said Pa.

How about Schulte & J. Doyle & Frank Chance & Three Fingers Brown? said Pa. They have done moan to make the name of Chicago a famous name than anybody since the days of Mister Up-ton Sinclair, Pa, said.

The Potter Palmers & the others are all rite, said Pa, but they had nothing to do with helping the Cubes into three or four champagne ships, & they had nothing to do with beating out the New York Giants & thus establishing in Chicago the supremacy of Chicago, Pa, said.

Ma cares whether they have four hundred or one hundred names in the Chicago society roll, said Pa.

All I know is that for the best part of six years Three Fingers Brown has kept the Giants of New York out of his hand, until this year; & that such wonderful names as Tinker & Chance & Evers will live in the history of Chicago long after the rest of the hundred of the one four hundred of society has went the way of Theodore Roosevelt, Pa, said, which means the way of obli-vion. Anybody can be a social dictator, Pa, said, telling which food and which should not be invited to a social affair, the same as a café keeper can scratch out names on his list of people for a breakfast dinner, but it takes heroes to be baseball idols like Chance & Evers & Tinker & Brown, even if they don't say much about leading the German.

Well, said Ma, you would up for all nite? You certainly seem to be, said Ma. All I want to tell you was that they had cut my cousin from Colfax out of the reel society list of Chicago, & just to think, she had only broken in.

Cheer up, said Pa, lots of Minor Leaguers broke in & lots of them broke rite out again.

As Mister Cambray said once: they came & so.

THE CIVIL WAR
50 YEARS AGO TODAY

NOVEMBER 1, 1861

A special meeting of the cabinet was called by the president to consider the resignation of Lieutenant General Scott. It was accepted because of his advanced age. He was retired on full pay. General George B. McClellan was appointed commander-in-chief, with the rank of lieutenant general. He was the thirteenth who had been similarly honored.

Lieutenant Colonel Morse with 400 cavalry surprised a Confederate camp 800 strong near Kerwick, Randolph county, Mo., and drove them in complete rout.

There was fighting about Gauley bridge, in western Virginia, beginning with an artillery skirmish and concluding in an attack on a Federal wagon train. The Confederate forces were strongly posted on Clifton hill.

General Fremont signed an agreement with two commissioners representing General Price, stipulating that prisoners under arrest for the expression of political opinion should be released, and that subsequently the war would be confined rigidly to the armies in the field.

General Dix in Maryland ordered the arrest of all citizens returning to vote in the November elections who had been bearing arms against the Union. Colonel Mulligan, captured by the Confederates at Lexington, Mo., was exchanged.

Federal prisoners were removed from Castle Pinckney in Charleston harbor to points ashore, where they would not be exposed to fire from possible attacking vessels.

The Tenth Connecticut, Col. Charles H. Russell, passed through New York. Measles and typhoid fever were reported epidemic in the Twentieth and Twenty-first Georgia regiments in camp at Pikestown, Ga.

Disease and Its Cure
By EDDY WOLFF.
APPENDICITIS

Underneath one curve of the intestines is a little fleshy tube known as the vermiform appendix. When this becomes inflamed it gives rise to a disease known as appendicitis.

This inflammation is generally brought on by the use of too many cold drinks, or by other means which have a tendency to chill the appendix. Small bits of food or seeds lodging in the appendix also cause appendicitis.

The first symptom of appendicitis is a severe cramping in the right side, to relieve which the leg is drawn up close to the body.

The severe pains may come and pass away shortly. Two or three such attacks are not unusual before the disease really becomes dangerous.

It is the wisest course in the case of appendicitis to consult a physician at the first intimation of the disease. He may advise that the organ be removed. If this is the case, his advice had better be followed, because at the beginning of the disease the operation is rarely fatal. If it is not attended to the malady becomes so serious that an operation is useless. Then death will follow.

Removal of the appendix has no effect on the body, as the appendix is a quite useless organ.

NIGHT-ARLY DAYS

THIRTY YEARS AGO TODAY

November 1, 1881.
The Hook and Ladder company of the volunteer fire department held their annual meeting in their rooms in the Arnold block on Huerfano street and elected the following officers for the ensuing year: Frank W. Marvin, foreman; L. Joe Tell, assistant foreman; J. L. Clark, second assistant foreman; Phil Strubel, secretary; D. W. Robbins, treasurer; M. B. Irvine, William Scott and N. G. Hock, standing committee.

Russell & Alexander, contractors, of this city, had just completed a water-works for Ouray at a cost of $25,000, and had taken their force to Las Vegas, New Mexico, where they had a large contract.

Turkey Creek postoffice in this county was discontinued and the people living in that vicinity were to get their mail at Sun View.

A young lad was said to be raising peanuts successfully near Denver.

November 1, 1891.
J. P. Seldembridge returned from Kit Carson county, where he had sold 40,000 sheep which he had bought in New Mexico and driven up to that point.

A special All Saints day service was held at Grace church.

The Gazette printed a map showing the location and boundaries of the voting precincts in the city for the benefit of the voters at the coming election. There were 13 precincts at that time, two of which were on the west side.

History has always attached much importance to the Number Seven. Of all numbers there is one which commanded, in a higher degree, the esteem and reverence of mankind. The Gazette has taken this sacred number, and has woven into stories on a variety of subjects a Series of Sevens, beginning each Monday and continuing during the week.

No. 3 CHARLES II OF ENGLAND

The most picturesque and eventful exile of any English sovereign was that of Charles II, who was compelled to disguise himself, flee from his country and remain in hiding for a considerable time before he was restored to his throne through the death of Cromwell and the fall of the form of government he had established. It was at the battle of Worcester in 1651 that Charles' forces were defeated and he was compelled to escape and it was nine years before he was finally restored, and with him a return of licentiousness and infidelity.

With the death of Charles I. Cromwell had seized the reins of government and established a protectorate. Charles had been crowned at Scots, and was supported by the Scots, but Cromwell was able to raise a large army and defeat them at Dunbar. This overthrow did not prevent Charles from penetrating into England at the head of 14,000 men, but the king was defeated by Cromwell, and the whole Scottish army was either killed or taken prisoners. Charles succeeded in escaping with extreme difficulty in the disguise of a peasant. He was so closely pursued that at one time he was compelled to conceal himself for 24 hours in a large oak tree, while his pursuers are said to have actually seated themselves under this tree, which was afterwards known as the royal oak.

After various journeys in many disguises, Charles II. reached France. Here he was continually being pursued by the agents of Cromwell and frequently came near being captured. One of his rescuers it was only through the generosity of an agent of the protector that he made his escape. The incident was as follows:

When Charles was in exile at Brussels he determined to pay a visit to his sister, the Princess of Orange, but his secrecy was indiscreet in his safety. He did not make his intentions known to anyone. He set off at night, accompanied by a faithful attendant, Fleming, and arriving at The Hague by a clock in the morning, he alighted at a low and obscure inn in a remote part of the town. He immediately sent Fleming to acquaint his sister where he was, and to leave it to her to contrive the way and manner of his having access to her, so as not to be known.

Fleming, having dispatched his commission, was no sooner returned to the king than an unknown person came to the inn. The king, believing it might be a messenger from his sister, desired Fleming to withdraw. He admitted the stranger, who immediately, on finding he was alone, fell on his knee and pulling off his mask, discovered himself to be Mr. Downing, then ambassador from Cromwell to the states general. The king was not a little surprised, but Downing soon assured him of his good wishes, and as a proof of them, after first enjoining the strictest secrecy, mentioned the cause of his coming to him.

The king, having solemnly engaged in the terms required, Downing proceeded and stated that his master, Cromwell, being now at peace with the Dutch, the states were so obliging that they refused nothing he required. In order to make it more effectual, he had entered into a treaty with the greatest secrecy, by which, among other matters, the state stood engaged to seize and deliver up to the usurper the person of his majesty, if he should at any time come within their territories. Downing represented his master's intelligence to be so good that a discovery would be made even to himself. (Downing) of his majesty's being there, and if he neglected to comply to have him seized, his master would resent it to the utmost, which would infallibly cost him his head.

Being desirous to prevent the miserable consequences which would follow, if it was discovered that the king had been there, he resolved to communicate the danger he was in to his majesty, and for fear of a future discovery, he had disguised himself, being resolved to trust no person with the secret. He then proposed that his majesty should immediately mount his horse and make all the dispatch possible out of the states territories. That he himself would return home, and under pretense of sickness, lie in bed than usual, and when he thought his majesty was far enough off, and in no danger of being overtaken, he would go to the states and acquaint them that he understood that his majesty was in town, and required that he should be seized according to the terms of the late treaty. The king immediately followed his advice, returned home, and everything happened as was proposed.

The king having thus escaped this imminent danger, most religiously performed any part of this story until after his restoration when he recalled Downing for his attachment in conferring on him the honor of knighthood and continuing him ambassador to the states of Holland.

Upon Charles' restoration, by affability and wit, by going about without ostentation and mixing with the lowest of his subjects, he obtained a certain degree of popularity, and the name of the "Merry Monarch" distinguished him during his life. His wit was ready and pleasant, as Rochester happily expressed in the poem in which he speaks of Charles as one "Who never said a foolish thing, And never did a wise one."

To this the king replied: "The matter was easily accounted for: his discourtesy was his own; his actions were his ministry's."

OPERATOR TO BLAME FOR R. I. WRECK IS VERDICT

Blame for the wreck which occurred on the Rock Island Sunday morning in which Sam A. Clark, fireman, was killed, is attached to L. B. Green, the telegraph operator at Calhan, by the coroner's jury which heard the inquest yesterday afternoon. The verdict, in substance, was:

"We find that the said Samuel A. Clark came to his death as the result of a head-on collision between two trains on the Rock Island railroad between the stations of Peyton and Tip Top, El Paso county, and that the collision of the trains was caused by the failure of L. B. Green, operator at Calhan, to deliver orders sent to him to be delivered to the train upon which Samuel A. Clark, deceased, was fireman."

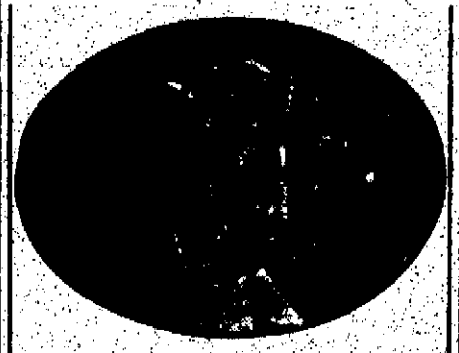

Assistant District Attorney Purcell said last night that no prosecution of Green would be made, inasmuch as it was impossible to determine criminal negligence of such a nature as defined by the statutes.

The coroner's jury consisted of A. Armstrong, foreman; Asa Carl, J. L. Sanderson, W. D. Crawford, E. J. Smith and Charles Brenneke.

Soap leaves a greasy film on glass which is hard to remove; the following method of washing will, however, make glass crystal clear:

Take a wooden tub, or pad the metal sink with soiled glass linen towels or any soft piece of cotton. Wash the glass in warm suds, made by dissolving a teaspoonful of Gold Dust washing powder in a pan of hot water; use a soft brush to clean surface, then rinse in water of the same temperature. After the glass has been carefully dried on glass linen, use a camel's hair brush to polish the cut surface.

COMEDienne HAS A NARROW ESCAPE

Josephine Glassman, the well-known singer and comedienne who is headlining the bill at the Majestic this week, narrowly escaped serious injury yesterday through the "carelessness" of a flock of burros on which she and the dozen or so other actors at the Majestic were taking a mountain trip. They had gone up Mount Cutler and were near the bottom of the trail on the return trip, when the boy in charge of the animals started barking and they followed their usual habit of crowding together whether there is any room or not. Miss Glassman's animal was on the lower side of the trail and was pushed over the edge. After a slide of about 10 feet she and the burro came to a stop against a tree, with the animal on top. The others rushed to her assistance, but fortunately a few painful bruises were the extent of her injuries. Her pocketbook was opened, scattering considerable change in the dirt and leaves, which could not be found.

Remarkable Record for Colorado Springs Shown

Not a single case of contagious disease under quarantine is the remarkable record of Colorado Springs today, according to the health inspectors. This is the first time in three years that the city has been so completely free from pest, although Colorado Springs at all times has been ahead of practically every other city in the country in this regard.

RICHARD CARLE MAKES FIRST APPEARANCE HERE

By J. R. H.

"Jumping Jupiter," described on the program as a farce in two acts with music, was presented at the Opera House last night with Richard Carle and Edna Wallace Hopper in the leading roles. Richard Carle has never before appeared in this city as a star, but his initial performance last night seemed to please very much and it is probable that on his next visit he will be greeted by a larger audience. Edna Wallace Hopper, who has been seen here many times, as a star and in support of various well-known players, was warmly greeted by her many friends.

"Jumping Jupiter" is a neat, well-produced, polished piece of its sort, but it lacks real material. It is too thin, too obviously a mere setting for that certain sort of comedy which Carle produces. The songs are not particularly good and though a pretty well-dressed chorus excites itself over them, with but a very few exceptions, they are not especially pleasing. The play has a mere suggestion of a plot, which loses before the first act is over, runs away and hides itself. This is Richard Carle's cue for entrance.

Carle has his admirers and many of them. At times he is funny, but too often he spoils really good comedy by silliness. From this silliness he extracts most of his laughs. Edna Wallace Hopper is as pretty, charming and pleasing as ever, though in "Jumping Jupiter" she is not overtaxed with work. The support is fair. The staging is good and the costumes at times beautiful.

I. O. O. F. DANCE

Colorado Springs lodge 140, I. O. O. F., will give a dance for members and their friends, Wednesday evening, November 1, 1911, at I. O. O. F. temple, corner Bijou and Nevada avenues. Dancing 8:30 to 11 o'clock. GOOD MUSIC.

PRAISES BURNS THEATER

Edna Wallace Hopper, who of the footlight fame, yesterday was shown through the new Burns theater, and grew highly enthusiastic over the structure. Its adornment and its technical properties. Particularly did she praise the lighting system, declaring that its perfection would aid the artist in acting their parts to their utmost ability. The actress complimented Mr. Burns most cordially upon being the owner of such an attractive and perfect piece of work. Mr. Burns himself escorted the young lady through the building.

Miss Hopper was here to take part in the play, "Jumping Jupiter," in which she stars with Richard Carle, which was staged at the Opera house last night. During the afternoon Miss Hopper took scenic trips among the mountains, for which she declared she has an extravagant fondness.

High School Pupils

Ready for Election

The election of officers for the student commission board at the High school will take place this afternoon, and the different literary societies are pushing their candidates with the real political spirit. Although the girls took no active part in the nominations which were held Monday morning, in the afternoon they announced the following tickets: Mary Burnap and Isabel McKenna, secretaries; Margaret Ayward, vice president; Taylor, the D. P. candidate for secretary, withdrew in favor of Miss Burnap, and all of the societies are supporting her. The school has been divided into three precincts and the voting will take place from 3 until 5 o'clock this afternoon. The school is literally plastered with badges bearing the names of the different candidates, and the excitement around the polls this afternoon is sure to be great.

GOOD ATTENDANCE ASSURED

A heavy sale of season tickets yesterday assured a full house for the opening night of the Star Lecture course, November 8, being organized through the Y. M. C. A. for the winter season. It was announced last night that there would be an exchange of tickets for the season at the Opera house Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

WILL BE TRIED FRIDAY

Norman Patterson, charged with shoplifting, and Harold Clark, charged with the theft of a pocketbook, were turned over to Constable Payton by the police, yesterday afternoon. They will have hearings before Justice Dunnington, Friday.

Patterson is said to have taken a shirtwaist from the Point store, Saturday afternoon. Clark is alleged to have stolen a pocketbook, containing some money and a railroad ticket, from Mrs. T. J. Fisher of Omaha, Neb., who was here attending the Dry Farming congress.

MAN WHO HELPED BUILD COG ROAD DIES IN N. C.

Charles J. L. Lantry, son of the builder of the Cog road up Pike's Peak, and a well-known railroad contractor, died in Asheville, N. C., last Friday, according to word just received here. The body will be taken to Strong City, Kan., for interment. Lantry, besides assisting in the construction of the Cog road, built, with the assistance of his brother, the Bolen cutoff for the Santa Fe in Kansas and Texas. He was also in charge for the Santa Fe of the reclamation of China basin, San Francisco.

WIFE GETS DIVORCE

On the day of her twentieth birthday, Amelia Grace Holcomb was given a divorce from Emmett E. Holcomb, by Judge Little of the county court, yesterday. They were married in this city September 4, 1910.

"And it's been a very happy day," she said, following the hearing. She charged that her husband refused to give her medical treatment when their baby was born. They had been making their home on a dry farm near Peyton, and she said that her former husband made her work in the field all day, pulling the lever on the corn planter, after which she would have to go to the house and cook.

Mrs. Holcomb has been granted the custody of the 4-month-old baby girl.

Chief of Police Byrne is anxious to place Jennie Rosenhain in some home where she can be looked after, in an attempt to cure her of the cocaine habit. She is still held at the county jail by the police. She is the woman arrested in men's clothing, Sunday evening, in the vicinity of the Wayne-Burnham murder scene.

Frank Schreiber will have a hearing before Justice Dunnington this morning, on a charge of disturbing the peace. He is said to have thrown a rock at D. W. Harris. The trouble, it is said, came up after Harris' garnished Schreiber's wages. Schreiber is out on $100 bond.

The district court has been asked to name former Governor Charles S. Thomas as defendant in the suit brought by Minnie Bendigard against the former administrators of the Harry Hall Estate. O. P. Grimes and W. C. Jones, Mr. Thomas, in his petition, points out that he has been named as administrator to wind up the estate.

LARGE NORTH WEBER ST.

RESIDENCE JUST SOLD
 The Union Investment and Realty company has just sold to John P. Banker of Overbrook, Kan., the 100 by 190 foot lot at the corner of North Weber and Cache la Poudre. On this lot is the commodious residence built by S. Gandy at 850 North Weber and the cottage at 217 East Cache la Poudre. The purchase price has not been made public, but is understood to be about $13,000. Mr. Banker is a wealthy retired farmer, and with his family will come here next spring to make this their home.

The sale was negotiated through the agency of H. S. Fairchild.
